#CoronaManiac - THE VERY END call for StayHome clips

Along the lines of "Have fun despite #StayHome" THE VERY END ask for a dance with the hashtag #CoronaManiac. The best clips will be selected and turned into a music video.

The procedure is quite simple: If you want to participate, just film yourself going crazy to the 80s Flashdance hit "Maniac", which has been covered by THE VERY END. The video file then just needs to be sent to the band. If you want to post your video yourself, you can do so with the hashtag #CoronaManiac. The best contributions will be collected until April 14, 2020 and made into a music video.

"Actually, we're still working on our new album in the studio. Suddenly Corona intervened. The idea then came up spontaneously. We just want to spread some positive vibes in these crazy times", explains guitarist René Bogdanski.

The video clip will be realised by members of the "A Hole In The Sun" production team

The CHUNDERKSEN agency, whose co-owner Jan Derksen already contributed to THE VERY END's music short film for "A Hole In The Sun" as production manager in 2011, will take care of realisation. "Jan approached us with the idea and we liked it right away", adds singer Björn Goosses. The plan is supposed to be executed quickly, hence the release of the video is set for a near future date - online and on social media.

The contributions can be sent to maniac@theveryend.net via WeTransfer. More information and the exact terms of participation are available via the band's website and social media channels (<http://www.theveryend.net/coronamaniac-the-very-end-call-for-stayhome-clips>). The song is available on YouTube (<https://youtu.be/2hSifH8Uqw4>), Spotify (<https://spoti.fi/2Ugr1Ci>) and of course on all other common streaming platforms, too. For inspiration, the band has put out a teaser video.
